

TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL

Preparing promising young people to thrive in University and beyond

Message from Rodger Wright
Headmaster - Trinity College School
1983 - 2004

It is with a confidence honed by practical experience that I fully and proudly endorse the Durham Elementary Private School. In my time at Trinity, scores of our students had much of their pre-TCS education at DEPS. In every instance, we found that their graduates not only thrived at Trinity but, indeed, seemed a "cut above" our average entrant. They were not only well prepared academically but had a maturity and sense of purpose that only comes from an individualized, caring, learning environment.

It is clear to me that Durham Elementary Private School knows what it takes to reach and instruct young people eventually destined for university. This aptitude begins with the Principals, Kathleen Natsuhara and Linda Comello, two exceptionally experienced and capable leaders who orchestrate a winning formula for elementary education.

If you are looking for a first-class private elementary education for your son or daughter, look no farther than Durham. In my opinion it would be a very wise choice.

deps - March 26, 2004